GREENSBORO BEND.

The ball team was defeated by the Hardwick team at Hardwick last Saturday, score 11 to 12. Warner tried to umpire but made a dismal failure. He alternated calling balls and strikes, no matter what the ball was, and the players on both teams were constantly protesting. In the 9th inning, with the score 11 to 12 with bases full, a Greensboro player received four balls but Warner decided he was struck out. The crowd booed and jeered his decision, but all he had to say was "I want this game," and he got it. Arrangements for another game are in progress.

L. S. Collins was in Barre and vicinity the first of the week on business.

The cattle buyers from Connecticut are again in town looking for more stock. They report that what they earned away before sold very well.

HARDWICK.

The annual field day of sports last Saturday passed successfully. A game of baseball was played between the Greensboro's and Hardwick's which resulted in a victory for Hardwick by a score of 11 to 12. The bicycle races were all nicely contested with the exception of the mile open in which an accident occurred. On the last quarter James Clark, who held the pole, broke one of the pedals to his wheel. The result was a general piling up of the contestants. McDonald was thrown about fifteen feet completely off the track and over the dump, but strange to remark although he struck on the back side of his head and neck, he immediately picked himself up and finished the race in second place. Mr. Clark was the most seriously injured. He was not able to arise for some time and it was thought at first that he was fatally injured. He was badly injured about the head and blood flowed from his mouth and eyes. In the fourth race, which was the handicap, McDonald won the $30 cup. In the mile open Robbins of Barre won the first prize, $25.

Daniel Aiken from Kellogg's Landing is visiting his relatives in town. He will return south next week.

Miss Charlotte, daughter of the late G. W. Cahoon of this place, recently graduated from the scientific department of the state university at Minneapolis and is now substituting in the public schools. She soon expects a permanent position in some public school or college as science teacher. Miss Cahoon is an excellent scholar and graduated third in her class. Her sister, Miss Grace, is a graduate of the medical department in the same school and has now commenced practice in Milwaukee. It is only a few years since these young ladies left this, their native town, and many friends here will be glad to hear of their success.

LYNDON CENTER.

T. N. Vail expects to sail for home from England this week.

The students were given a half holiday Wednesday and Thursday to enable them to attend the fair.

L. B. Harris has had excellent success with his Shropshire sheep at the fairs. He feels naturally proud of the premiums won at the Bay State fair at Worcester, where he entered against all New England breeders. At this fair he received $50 for the best ten sheep in the show, and $20 for the best ten fat sheep with ten yearling wethers. The prize of $25 offered by the American Shropshire society for the best flock of sheep also came to Mr. Harris, who exhibited 38 sheep.
